

There will be times when loving on your life will be tough and you will simply not want to deal with finding love in the situation.

It is in this moment I am here for you. I am the inner light that never dims or goes out. All that I am and represent is part of you always. We are not separate.

Come inside and sit with me for a bit. I love you too much not to say, "You got this!" Life is happening now - let's love on it together and dream bigger than we ever could have imagined.

Note to Self

